

Do you have the ability to establish rapport and then maintain a friendly yet professional relationship with someone, and enjoy the process throughout? Are you creative enough to enjoyably support an independent, outgoing woman with disability to get around to her appointments, shopping, and recreational activities? Can you think on your feet and react constructively to spontaneous challenges while also being a part of an interactive, 24/7 support team? If this is you and you also have a vehicle, a valid driver's licence, a willingness to work at least one awake overnight shift per week, and experience with disability reply with a detailed resume asap! We need you!
